METAL POISON. I am a coppersmith by trade, and during a series of years my arms (being barewhen at work) have absorbed a wonderful amount of metal poison. Having a scrott-loss tendency from my youth, the small particles of copper and brass would get into the sores, and by this process the poison was conveyed into my blood till my whole system became infected. I was treated with the old remedies of mercury and lodide potassium. Salivation followed, my teeth are all loose in my head, my digestive organs deranged, and I have been helpless in bed for over a year with mercurial rheumatism. My joints were all swollen, and I lost the all loose in my head, my digestive organs deranged, and I have been helpless in bed for over a year with mercurial rheumatism. My joints were all swollen, and I lost the use of my arms and legs, and became helpless as an infaut.

My sufferings became so intense that it was impossible for me to rest. The doctors advised me to go to the eity hospital for treatment. This I could not bear, A friend, who has proveds friend indeed, urged me to try Swiff's Specific, believing it would cure me. Others discouraged me, but I secured in the course of the bottless and have now taken two dozen bottles. The first effect of the medicine was to bring the poison to the surface, and I broke out all over in running sores. They soon disappeared, and my skin cleared off. My knees, which had become twice their natural size, have resumed their usual size, and are supple as of yore. My arms and hands are all right again, and can use them without pain. The entire disease has left all parts of the body save two ulcers on my wrists, which are heating rapidly. I am weak from long confinement, but I have the use of all my limes. This medicine is bringing me out of the greatest trial of my life, and I cannot find words sufficient to express my appreciation of its virtues and the gratitude [see that I ever heard of it. MALARIAL POISON.

The drought in Southwest Georgia last spring dried up the wells, and we were compelled to use water from the creek on the plantation. The result was that all were troubled with chills and fever. I carried with me several bottles of swift's Specific, and as long as I took it I had perfect health. As soon as I ceased taking it I, like the rest, was afflicted with chills. When I resumed its use I was all right again. We have used it in our family as an antidote for malaria poison for two or three years, and have never known it to fall in a single instance.

PLANETS FOR MAY

THROUGH THE TELESCOPES.

The Movements and Positions of the Princi put Bodies-Venus the Observed of All Observers-Neptune and His Course.

after this time, commencing to run her race as evening star. On the 4th, at midnight, an event occurs in her career that gives her a prominent place on the annals of the month. She is in superior conjunction with the sun, passing beyond the sun, making her advent on his eastern side, clinging closely to him for a time, and hiding herself in his brilliant rays. As the weeks roll on she will emerge from her seclusion, shine with fitful glow in the golden twilight, and, before the summer wanes, will be the loveliest object in the western evening sky, while winter will commence in earnest before she reaches her point of greatest distance from the sun. No true lover of the stars can gaze unmoved upon this beautiful planet, as, like a golden bead strung on an invisible wire, she oscillates eastward from the sun until her goal is reached on the 8th of December and then retraces her steps towards the great orb to whom she is linked by chains lighter than gossamer, but inde structible as the material universe it-movements of this radiant star will readily perceive the oscillations eastward and westward from the sun, for such is the appearance she presents to spectators on the earth. In reality Venus and the earth are both revolving in elliptical orbits around the sun, as would be plain if observers could take the great luminary for a standpoint. Venus being nearer the sun than the earth, moves faster, and makes a smaller circuit. The earth moves slower and makes a larger circuit. The former, travelling 21 miles in a second, completes a revolution in 225 days. The latter, travelling 18 miles in a second, completes a revolution in 365 days. Thus our nearest planetary neighbor, and her twin-sister, the earth, move on in their appointed paths, Venus all the while gaining upon the earth. A time must come when the two planets and the sun will be in line

Observers who watch closely the

the planets in the system. This point will be reached on the 4th. Mathematicians give the exact fig-ures. When Venus has made two en-tire revolutions and six-tenths of a third one, and when the earth has made one entire revolution and six-tenths of a second one, a superior conjunction of Venus will take place. She requires 584 days to accomplish this feat. It is therefore called her synodic period, and represents the time that elapses between two consecutive returns to superior conjunction. The same law holds in regard to inferior conjunctions. Venus, then, on the 4th is in superior conjunction, rising and setting at the same time with the sun. She is in line with the sun and the earth, the sun being in the middle, is at her greatest distance from the earth, invisible as she passes beyond the sun, and invisible for some weeks to come, being hidden in the sunbeams.

Although at present we may not be hold the fairest of the stars with the physical eye, it is none the less sure that she is coming towards us; that she will before long be visible in the west as evening star, and that she will throw a spell over the summer evenings with her soft, dreamy beauty. She is lovely as in the morning sky she heralds the sun's approach in the glowing east, and even dares to shine in his majestic presence. She is shadows deepen, outshining the myriad twinkling hosts in the firmament, and reigning with gentle graciousness as their acknowledged queen. But we an-ticipate the coming glory of our sister planet, for during the month of May she can only be seen by the eye of fancy while she makes her way earthward amid the blaze of sunlight that encircles her. Venus, on the 11th, moving eastward from the sun, pays her respects to Neptune moving westward towards the sun. The two planets are then in conjunction. Venus being 1 degree 15' north.

The right ascension of Venus on the 1st is 2h. 39m.; her declination is 14 degrees 38' north; her diameter is 10".2. and she is in the constellation Aries. Venus rises on the 1st a few minutes before 5 o'clock in the morning; on the 31st she sets 20 minutes before 8 o'clock in the evening. NEPTUNE is evening star until the 13th, and then morning star. On the 13th, at noon-day, he is in conjunction with the sun, passing to the sun's western side, and commencing his course as morning star. He is the first of the giant planets to reach the goal, though the other members of the quartette will follow his example in due time. It is well to note the difference between the conjunction of a superior or outer planet and the superior conjunction of an inferior or inner planet, as illustrations of both incidents occur within a few days of each other during the month. In the former case, that of Neptune, he passes from the sun's eastern side to his western. In the latter case, that of Venus, she passes from the sun's western side to his eastern. Venus being the first to pass the goal, or beyond the sun, must meet Neptune hastening to the same goal. As we have seen, the planets pass each other or are in conjunction on the The right ascension of Neptune the 1st is 3h. 22m.; his declination is 16 degrees 47'; his diameter 2".5, and he is in the constellation Taurus. Neptune sets on the 1st at half-past 7 o'clock in the evening; on the 31st he rises at half-past 3 o'clock in the morning.

JUPITER is evening star throughout the month. His course is marked by an interesting event. On the 17th, at 10 o'clock in the morning, he is in quadrature on the sun's eastern side. Jupiter in quadrature is almost as impressive as Jupiter in opposition; for, as the sun sinks below the western horizon, this superb planet holds his court in the zenith. The highest heaven is a fitting place for the most dis-tinguished member of the sun's family, who though three months after opposition still retains the golden lustre, the large proportions, and the beaming as-pect that distinguished him on his near-st approach to the earth. Jupiter and Regulus continue to be near neighbors during the month, as they have been for the last seven months. On the 30th, at 7 o'clock in the morning, they are in conjunction for the third time, Jupiter being 41' north.

A better opportunity seldom occurs for the study of the difference in the apparent movement between a planet and a fixed star. The star seems to be un-

RICHMOND, VA., SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 2, 1885. changebly fixed in its position in the sky, being carried westward by the earth's motion in her orbit eastward. The planet is rightly named a wanderer, for he seems to move now forward, now backward, and now he is stationary. Thus, on the 7th of October, 1884, Jupiter and Regulus were in conjunction, the planet after that time being cast of the star. On the 14th of March VENUS is morning star until the 4th; they were again in conjunction, changing places as before, the planet being west of the star. On the 30th they will be in conjunction for the third time, the planet again being east of the star, to whose vicinity he will no more star, to whose vicinity he will no more return until, nearly twelve years hence, he has completed another revolution round the sun, passing through the whole circle of the zodiac. Regulus lies almost exactly in the sun's path, being about half a degree from the ecliptic, so that the sun, moon, and planets are often passing near the bright star. Mars was in its near vicinity in May and Venus in October of the last

The right ascension of Jupiter on th 1st is 9h. 54m.; his declination is 13 degrees 58'; his diameter is 37".2, and he is in the constellation Leo. Jupiter sets on the 1st about 2 o'clock in the morning; on the 31st he sets a few minutes before midnight. MERCURY is morning star. On the 25th he reaches his greatest western elongation, being 24 degrees 59' west elongation, being 24 degrees 59' west take up collections in the various con-of the sun. Although he is nearly as far as possible from the sun, he is 9 trict for the purpose of assisting these degrees farther south, and not as favorably situated for observation as he was at eastern elongation in April, when he was 19 degrees 26' from the sun. He may, however, be visible to the naked eye under the best conditions of wind eye under the best conditions of wind them by the latter which, by special invitation, and weather, for the present is the first after which, by special invitation, and weather, for the present is the vear when they visited the day-school in ble to the naked eye as morning star.

He rises on the 25th about an hour before the sun, is in the constellation Aries, and there are no bright stars near to point him out. The observer must be keen-eyed who succeeds in must be keen-eyed who succeeds in finding him, 9 degrees south of the sunrise point.
On the 13th, at 3 o'clock in the morn ing, Mercury is in conjunction with Mars, being 2 degrees 27' south. On the 30th, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, he is again in conjunction with Mars, being 2 degrees 56 minutes south. The right ascension of Mercury on with each other, as is the case with all the 1st is 2h. 12m.; his declination is 12 degrees 49' north; his diameter is 12", and he is in the constellation Mercury rises on the 1st about halfpast 4 o'clock in the morning; on the 31st he rises a quarter after 3 o'clock.

MARS is morning star. He is twice in conjunction with Mercury, as already referred to. The planets are near each other during the whole month, The right ascension of Mars on the 1st is 1h. 32m.; his declination is 8 degrees 54' north; his diameter is 4". 4, and he is in the constellation Pisces.

sets about 1 o'clock. THE MOON. The May moon fulls on the 28th at thirty-one minutes after 3 o'clock in thirty-one minutes after 3 o'clock in the evening. The moon speeds on her course without meeting a single planet until the 12th, when she is in conjunc-tion with Mars, being 2 degrees 3' south. She is in conjunction with Mercury four minutes later, passing 22' north. She is in conjunction with Neptune on the 14th about three hours hefore new moon, and with Janus on the same day three hours after new moon. On the 16th she is at her near-est point to Saturn, on the 20th to Ju-piter, and on the 23d to Uranas, being I degree 11' south. The close conjunction with Mercury on the 12th is an occultation to observers more favorably situated, and so is the conjunction of Uranus that takes place here on the 23d an occultation to observers at the right points in the far South. Thus our brothers and sisters, the planets, and our satellite, the moon, present charming and varied aspects during the month of May. We have on the records the superior conjunction of Ve-nus, the conjunction of Neptune, the quadrature of Jupiter, and the western clongation of Mercury, in which the great central orb is the chief actor. We have also the con-junction of Venus and Neptune, and two conjunctions of Mercury and Mars, wherein planet meets planet on the celestial road. The moon is not behindhand in contributing her part to the celestial exhibition, for, besides swinging her penderous sphere near the whole family of planets in turn, she occults Mercury and Uranus for the telescopic delight of observers more fortunately situated than those who look upward from this belt of the earth's IMPORTANT RAILEGAD NOTES The Frederickship Rand Sold to the Const Lipe-Chesupenke and Ohie.

For several days past there have been rumors affect here of the sale of a controlling interest in the Richmond. Fredericksburg and Potoniac rainfood to the Atlantic Coast Line. The rumors were at first flatly contradicted, but on yesterday evening the truth was acknowledged in high quarters. The Fredericksburg road has been sold to gentlemen interested in the Coast Line. The sale probably carries with it the Virginia and Carolina road.

The negotiations for this sale were closed at the office of the Friedlity Frust Company in Philadelphia yesterday. Six thousand shares are disposed of at 880 per share. Mr. Moncure Robinson parts with most but not all of his stock. The remainder of the block was made up by several bodiers.

Thomas's Artist Concert.

The concert to be given at Mozart Hall on Tuesday next, by reason of the reputation of the artists to appear of that occasion and the programme announced, will be highly entertaining. Miss Emma Juch, the sopeant was the leading sourand at Tulindelphia when the Richmond Garman Singing Soriety risited that was a 1883. Those who heard her speak in high terms of her, both as regards her vocal powers and her beauty of person. The concert will be worth hearing.
